Continued Citizen Input Needed on Ike Cap Concepts

Thanks to extensive, community input the Cap the Ike study has taken a step closer to a design preferred by the community for covering the Eisenhower Expressway through Oak Park.

Three concepts, synthesized from six concepts presented to the public in July, will be presented for public review and discussion at 7 p.m., Thurs., Aug. 12 in Council Chambers at Village Hall, 123 Madison St.

When the six initial preliminary design concepts were presented last month, community input provided valuable insight about the most desired features of a cap, which will be reflected in the three more refined concepts to be presented at the August 12 meeting.

This additional, ongoing public input on the concepts will be used to further refine the designs and develop a recommended design for capping the Ike.
