

How to Use Fentanyl, Xylazine, and Benzodiazepine Test Strips

1. Prepare Your Supply for Testing

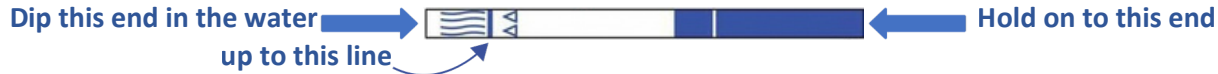

If you are injecting, first prepare your shot. Next, add ten drops (1 teaspoon) of water to your cooker and stir well.

If you are snorting your drugs, add ten drops (1 teaspoon) of water into the empty baggie that your drugs came in and mix well.

If you are using pills, crush one in an empty baggie and then dump out the powder. Then add ten drops (1 teaspoon) of water into the baggie and mix well.

2. Use the Test Strip

Dip your test strip into the water covering the wavy lines. Wait 15 seconds and then take it out and lay it flat on a clean surface. Wait one minute to read the results.

3. Read the Results

One red line = Positive The strip detected the substance in the sample.

Two red lines = Negative The strip did not detect the substance in the sample. You still need to be careful.

No control line

Invalid. If the strip has no control line or no lines at all, the strip did not work.

Positive Results If your sample tests positive for fentanyl, xylazine, or benzodiazepines

- Consider taking less or not using it.
- Start by using a little bit. Wait 20 seconds to see how strong it is. If it feels off, be careful.
- Don't use alone.
- Have Narcan with you (will only work for fentanyl and other opioids).
